

OUR DOCTORS

Dr Graham Radford-Smith

BA MA (Cantab) BM BCh (Oxon) MRCP FRACP DPhil (Oxon)
Gastroenterologist

Graham Radford-Smith is a gastroenterologist specializing in the field of Gut Health with a particular focus on Inflammatory Bowel Diseases (IBD), colorectal neoplasia, and non-inflammatory gut disorders. Graham developed the IBD centre at the Royal Brisbane and Women's Hospital in 1997. He is Associate Professor within the Faculty of Medicine, University of Queensland.

He is an honorary group leader at the QIMR Berghofer Medical Research Institute where he works with his team in the Gut Health research group, and Associate Professor within the Faculty of Medicine, University of Queensland, Chair of the ANZ IBD consortium of clinicians, and Crohn's Colitis Cure (a charity supporting research and clinical practice for clients with IBD).

Special Interests:

- Inflammatory Bowel Diseases
- Functional Gastrointestinal disorders
- Colorectal polyps and colorectal cancer
- Colonoscopy
- Metabolic syndrome
- Microbiome

Graham embraces a holistic approach to Gut Health, working with clients to optimize their diet, mental health and other lifestyle factors while ensuring that they receive the best care.

Integrated Gut Health: Suite 2, 165 Moggill Rd. Taringa QLD 4068
Phone: (07) 3152 7211 Fax: (07) 3009 0053

email: concierge@integratedguthealth.com
visit: www.integratedguthealth.com.au